

Events Along the Rock

Selected snapshots by Mike Davis show where Escarpment Views has been recently. If you have an event you'd like us to feature, send us an invitation!

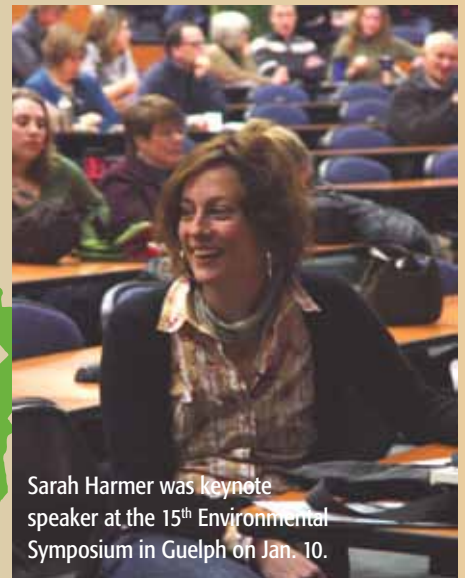

David Labistour, CEO of Mountain Equipment Co-op (MEC), which opened a new store location in Burlington on Nov. 25, stands in front of the rooftop photovoltaic and solar thermal panels, with the Escarpment in the distance. "MEC exists to support people's outdoor recreation needs," he says. "Whether it's hiking the Bruce Trail, bouldering in Niagara Glen or camping at Bronte Creek, that means offering them products that are designed and tested to perform in real conditions and that represent great value."

Visitors flowed through the 28th Annual Guelph Organic Tasting Fair at University of Guelph, Jan. 24 & 25. Escarpment Views was proud to be a media partner. Next year's conference will be held late January 2010 at the Guelph University Centre.

Icewine flowed at the outdoor ice bar in Jordan Village on Jan. 17 during the Niagara Icewine Festival.

Sarah Harmer was keynote speaker at the 15th Environmental Symposium in Guelph on Jan. 10.
